Foreign Filing of Secrecy Order Inventions In Designated Countries—Korea Designated on July 29, 1993

37 CFR Part 5

Under the provisions of 37 CFR Part 5 - Secrecy of Certain Inventions and Licenses to File Applications in Foreign Countries - the Patent and Trademark Office may, with the approval of the defense agency sponsoring the secret order, permit the filing of secrecy order applications under 37 CFR 5.5 in designated foreign countries. The designated countries are those where the Government of the United States of America has entered into reciprocal patent secrecy arrangements.

The United States of America has detailed arrangements with 17 countries, most of whom are members of the Coordinating Committee for Multilateral Export Controls (COCOM). These arrangements provide protection for classified and other sensitive inventions when patent applications are being held in secret. These countries are as follows: Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Japan, Republic of Korea, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Turkey and United Kingdom.

Such arrangements between the United States of America and the Republic of Korea include the "Agreement Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Republic of Korea for the Safeguarding of Secrecy of Inventions Relating to Defense and for which Applications for Patents Have Been Made," signed at Seoul on Jan. 6, 1992, and implementing procedures thereto ("the 1992 Agreement"). The 1992 Agreement entered into force on July 29, 1993, after which time either Government may permit the filing of patent applications under secrecy with the other Government (the "Receiving Government"), which shall safeguard their secrecy.

The 1992 Agreement stipulates that the rights of private owners of patents and technical information should be fully recognized and protected in accordance with domestic laws applicable to such rights. It also recognizes that privately owned technology should, to the greatest extent practicable, be exchanged through commercial agreements between owners and users. Other provisions are intended to assure fair treatment of private owners when they deal directly with a foreign government and to prevent private information that is communicated through government channels from being used except as provided for in the agreement.

The 1992 Agreement also provides for the establishment of a Technical Property Committee composed of representatives from each government. The Technical Property Committee is charged with general responsibility, for making recommendations to the two governments on any matters relating to the Agreement which are brought before the Committee by either government. Policy guidance for the representatives of the United States of America of the Technical Property Committee is provided by the Department of Commerce, the Department of Defense, the Department of State and other U.S. Government agencies.

The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office has provided for the addition of the Republic of Korea as a country that is available for foreign filing of secrecy order applications in the following manner:

o As of July 29, 1993, the Republic of Korea will be included in all type 1 secrecy orders (as defined in "Secrecy Order and Permit for Foreign filing in Certain Countries" 51 Federal Register 32938 (Sept. 17, 1986), 1071 Federal Register 32938 (Sept. 17, 1986), 1071 Official Gazette 31 (Oct. 21, 1986)) as one of the authorized countries for foreign filing.

o Any type 1 secrecy order issued prior to July 29, 1993, is hereby modified to include the Republic of Korea as one of the authorized countries for foreign filing after July 29, 1993.

o Under all other U.S. Patent and Trademark Office secrecy orders, foreign filing in the Republic of Korea will be considered on a case-by-case basis under 37 CFR 5.5.

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents and Trademarks Available for Public Use in Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries (PTDLs), receive patent and trademark information in various formats from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Many PTDLs have on file all full-text patents issued since 1790, trademarks published since 1872, and select collections of foreign patents. All PDTLs have both the patent and trademark sections of the Official Gazette of the U. S. Patent and Trademark Office. The full-text utility and design patents are distributed numerically on 16 mm microfilm, and plant patents on color microfiche. Patent and trademark search systems on CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only) format are available at all PTDLs to increase utilization of and enhance access to the information found in patents and trademarks. It is through the CD-ROM systems that prelminary patent and trademark searches can be conducted through the numerically arranged collections.

All information is available for use by the public free of charge.

In addition, each PTDL offers reference publications which outline and provide access to the patent and trademark classification systems, as well as other documents and publications which supplement the basic search tools. PTDLs provide technical staff assistance in using all materials. Facilities for making paper copies of patent and trademark information are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent and trademark collections among the PTDLs, and their hours of service to the public vary, anyone contemplating use of these collections at a particular library is urged to contact that library in advance about its collections, services, and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 2.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

1. Background

In an effort to improve the patent laws of the countries of the world including the United States, as well as to harmonize some of the salient provisions of those laws, the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) convened a series of meetings of experts beginning in 1985. In 1991, the first session of a diplomatic conference was held to advance the conclusion of the Treaty Supplementing the Paris Convention as far as Patents are Concerned ("the Treaty") which evolved from those meetings. A second and concluding session of the diplomatic conference was scheduled for July 1993, but was deferred at the request of the United States.

Various provisions of the Treaty are supported by many interests in the United States. Some of the provisions of the Treaty, however, are opposed by some interests in the United States. In addition, some provisions will require choices to be made in their implementation.

To determine the nature and extent of the support or opposition to the various provisions of the Treaty and to obtain guidance on the choices that would have to be made to accompany the implementation of some of the provisions, public expression of views will be sought. Such public expression of views may take the form of written comments submitted to the Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks or may take the form of public commentary offered at a series of public hearings that will be held for receiving oral comments on specific topics.

Written comments may be offered on any aspect of the Treaty or its implementation or may be directed to the topics which will be the subjects of the public hearings.

2. Topics of the Hearings

Public hearings will be held to receive comments on specific topics as follows:

Hearing #1 (9:00 a.m. on Thursday, October 7, 1993) - (First-to-file)

The Treaty calls for awarding patents to the first inventor to file a patent application for a given invention (Article 9). The Treaty also mentions a prior user right (Article 20).

Topics to be addressed at the hearing are:

(i) Procedure for awarding patents (first-to-file or first-to-invent); and
(ii) Nature of a prior-user right, if any, to accompany a first-to-file system.

Hearing #2 (9:00 a.m. on Friday, October 8, 1993) - (Prior art)

The Treaty provides that everything made available to the public anywhere prior to the filing date of an application, or priority date if one is claimed, is prior art for that application (Article 11). Patent applications are prior art, at least for novelty purposes, as of their filing date, or priority date if one is claimed, and for non-obviousness purposes optionally as of the same date or as of their publication date (Article 13). The Treaty also provides a grace period for disclosures directly or indirectly emanating from the inventor (Article 12), but does not address certain variations contained in United States law (experimental use and secret use or sale).

The topics to be addressed at the hearing are:

(i) The inclusion of foreign public use, display or oral disclosure as prior art;
(ii) Prior art effect of certain patent applications and their effective dates for novelty and non-obviousness purposes (and the impact on In re Hilmer, 359 F.2d 859, 149 USPQ 480 (CCPA 1966), 424 F.2d 1108, 165 USPQ 255 (CCPA 1970)); and
(iii) The accommodation of existing equitable variations to existing statutory bars (experimental use and secret use or sale).

Hearing #3 (1:30 p.m. on Friday, October 8, 1993) - (Procedural changes)

The Treaty requires publication of applications 18 or at the latest 24 months after filing (Article 15) and provides compensation for uses of inventions claimed in both the published application and the resulting patent (Article 23). The Treaty calls for the term of protection of a patent to be measured from the filing date of the application (Article 22(2)(b)).

The topics to be addressed at the hearing are:

(i) Publication of applications 18/24 months after filing;
(ii) Protection offered between publication and patenting; and
(iii) Measuring the term of protection from the filing date of the application.

3. Treaty Text Related to Topics of the Hearings

WIPO document PLT/DC/69 entitled "Observations of the International Bureau Following the First Part of the Diplomatic Conference" contains the provisions of the Treaty ("Basic Proposal") and the Observations of the WIPO International Bureau on past understandings and possible future accommodations. Extracts of that document related to the topics of the hearings follow. See "FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT" above to obtain the complete document.

ARTICLE 9

[Basic Proposal]

Article 9
Right to a Patent

(1) [Right of Inventor] The right to a patent shall belong to the inventor. Any Contracting Party shall be free to determine the circumstances under which the right to the patent shall belong to the employer of the inventor or to the person who commissioned the work of the inventor which resulted in the invention.

(2) [Right Where Several Inventors Independently Made the Same Invention] Where two or more inventors independently have made the same invention, the right to a patent for that invention shall belong,

(i) where only one application is filed in respect of that invention, to the applicant, as long as the application is not withdrawn or abandoned, is not considered withdrawn or abandoned, or is not rejected, or

(ii) where two or more applications are filed in respect of that invention, to the applicant whose application has the earliest filing date or, where priority is claimed, the earliest priority date, as long as the said application is not withdrawn or abandoned, is not considered withdrawn or abandoned, or is not rejected.

[Observations]

9.A With respect to Article 9, it is suggested that paragraph (1) should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to (i) adding the words "or his successor in title" at the end of the first sentence and (ii) inserting the words "and the extent to which" after the words "under which"' in the second sentence. Moreover, the following note should be included in the Records:

"It was understood that nothing in Article 9(1) should be interpreted as derogating in any way from the provisions of Article 6."

9.B As far as Article 9(2) is concerned, it appears, on the basis of the statements made in the first part of the Diplomatic Conference, that all prospective Contracting Parties other than the United States of America will insist on the mandatory character of the first-to-file system as a condition sine qua non for the adoption of the Treaty. It is therefore suggested that Article 9(2) should remain as in the basic proposal.

ARTICLE 11

[Basic Proposal]

Article 11
Conditions of Patentability

(1) [Patentability] In order to be patentable, an invention shall be novel, shall involve an inventive step (shall be non-obvious) and shall be, at the option of the Contracting Party, either useful or industrially applicable.

(2) [Novelty] (a) An invention shall be considered novel if it does not form part of the prior art. For the determination of novelty, items of prior art may only be taken into account individually.

VOL 1153 ISS 5 AUG 31 1993 UMI

(b) The prior art shall consist of everything which, before the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date of the application claiming the invention, has been made available to the public anywhere in the world.

[(c) Notwithstanding subparagraph (b), any Contracting Party shall be free to exclude from the prior art matter made available to the public, by oral communication, by display or through use, in a place or space which is not under its sovereignty or, in the case of an intergovernmental organization, under the sovereignty of one of its member States.]

(3) [Inventive Step (Non-Obviousness)] An invention shall be considered to involve an inventive step (be non-obvious) if, having regard to the prior art as defined in paragraph (2), it would not have been obvious to a person skilled in the art at the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date of the application claiming the invention.

[Observations]

11.A It is suggested that Article 11 should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to Observations 11.B to 11.E.

11.B Ad Article 11(2)(b). It is suggested that the meaning of the word "available" be clarified either by adding to it the words "and effectively accessible" or by stating the following in the Records of the Diplomatic Conference:

"With respect to Article 11(2)(b), it was agreed that a document that has been produced only in a single copy or a very limited number of copies is to be considered as having been made available to the public only where at least one copy has been put in a place open to the public and has been catalogued or indexed, and the catalogue or index is accessible to the public."

11.C Ad Article 11(2)(c). It seems that the freedom allowed by this subparagraph is needed for the acceptance of the Treaty by several countries, including the United States of America. Since the matter is not of primary importance, it is suggested that, despite the fact that a majority was for the omission of this subparagraph during the first part of the Diplomatic Conference, the subparagraph be inserted in the basic proposal and the square brackets around it be removed.

11.D Ad proposal for new Article 9bis. It is suggested to reflect the contents of Article 9bis(1) as proposed by the Delegation of the United States of America (see document PLT/DC/INF/5, paragraph 11.07) in a note in the Records of the Diplomatic Conference so that there would be no doubt that the United States of America could maintain the corresponding provisions in its law. Since the proposed Article 9bis(1)(i) seems to aim only at regulating the consequences of acts having occurred on the territory of the Contracting Party which determines the said consequences, the note should reflect this by containing the words "in the territory of the Contracting Party." Thus, such a note could read as follows:

"It was understood that Article 11 did not affect the freedom of a Contracting Party to provide for a loss of right to file an application where

(i) the inventor, his successor-in-title or the applicant had placed on sale or secretly used the invention in the territory of the Contracting Party more than 12 months preceding the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date of the application even if the invention was not, by virtue of being so placed on sale or secretly used, made available to the public; or

(ii) the applicant had filed in respect of the invention an application for an industrial property title outside the Contracting Party in violation of the national security provisions of the Contracting Party."

11.E As regards paragraph (2) of the proposed Article 9bis, this provision would amount to an option to extend the grace period beyond 12 months for the special case of public experimental use. Such an extension of the grace period would be contrary to the basic principle according to which the establishment of a grace period always has been considered a matter requiring a uniform solution in all Contracting Parties. If, for example, the Treaty would prescribe a minimum term for the grace period with an option for Contracting Parties to provide for a longer term, applicants intending to file applications in several countries could rely only on the shortest term existing in any of those countries, and third parties would have to take into account the various terms in order to ascertain whether a disclosure would have the benefit of the grace period. It is therefore believed that the proposed extension should not be allowed.

ARTICLE 12

[Basic Proposal]

Article 12
Disclosures Not Affecting Patentability (Grace Period)

(1) [Circumstances of Disclosure Not Affecting Patentability] Disclosure of information which otherwise would affect the patentability of an invention claimed in the application shall not affect the patentability of that invention where the information was disclosed, during the 12 months preceding the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date of the application,

(i) by the inventor,

(ii) by an Office and the information was contained

(a) in another application filed by the inventor and should not have been disclosed by the Office, or

(b) in an application filed without the knowledge or consent of the inventor by a third party which obtained the information direct or indirectly from the inventor, or

(iii) by a third party which obtained the information direct or indirectly from the inventor.

(2) ["Inventor"] For the purposes of paragraph (1), "inventor" also means any person who, at the filing date of the application, had the right to the patent.

(3) [No Time Limit for Invoking Grace Period] The effects of paragraph (1) may be invoked at any time.

(4) [Evidence] Where the applicability of paragraph (1) is contested, the party invoking the effects of that paragraph shall have the burden of proving, or of making the conclusion likely, that the conditions of that paragraph are fulfilled.

[Observations]

12.A It is suggested that Article 12 should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to Observations 12.B to 12.D.

12.B Ad Article 12(1). It would seem that the term "during" needs to be clarified in respect of the cases referred to under (ii). An application filed by the inventor or by a third party may have a prior art effect under Article 13, so that it is to be treated as a disclosure not on the date of its publication but on its filing or priority date. In such a case, Article 12(1) applies if the filing or priority date of the said application fell during the 12 months (although its publication occurred after the 12-month period) preceding the filing or priority date of the application to which the grace period is to be applied. Therefore, in order to cover these cases, it is suggested that, instead of "during," the words "during, or with effect under Article 13 on a date during," be used.

12.C Ad Article 12(2). It would seem that the case where a person had the right to a patent only before the filing date but no longer at the filing date (for example, the case of an assignment of that right) should be covered. Consequently, it is suggested that the words "or before" be inserted after the word "at."

12.D Proposal for a new Article 9bis(2). See Observation 11.D, above.

VOL 1153 ISS 5 AG 31 1993 UMI

ARTICLE 13

[Basic Proposal]

Article 13
Prior Art Effect of Certain Applications

(1) [Principle of "Whole Contents"] (a) Subject to subparagraph (b), the whole contents of an application ("the former application") as filed in, or with effect for, a Contracting Party shall, for the purpose of determining the novelty of an invention claimed in another application filed in, or with effect for, that Contracting Party, be considered as prior art from the filing date of the former application on condition that the former application or the patent granted thereon is published subsequently by the authority competent for the publication of that application or patent. Any Contracting Party may consider the whole contents of the former application to be prior art also for the purpose of determining whether the invention satisfies the requirement of inventive step (non-obviousness).

(b) Where the former application referred to in subparagraph (a) claims the priority of an earlier application for a patent, utility model or other title protecting an invention, matter that is contained in both the former application and such earlier application shall be considered as prior art in accordance with subparagraph (a) from the priority date of the former application.

(c) For the purposes of subparagraph (a), the "whole contents" of an application consists of the description and any drawings, as well as the claims, but not the abstract.

(2) [Applications No Longer Pending] Where the former application referred to in paragraph (1)(a) has been published in spite of the fact that, before the date of its publication, it was withdrawn or abandoned, was considered withdrawn or abandoned, or was rejected, it shall not be considered as prior art for the purposes of paragraph (1)(a).

(3) [International Applications Under the PCT] As regards international applications filed under the Patent Cooperation Treaty, any Contracting Party may provide that paragraph (1) shall apply only if the acts referred to in Article 22 or, where applicable, Article 39(1) of that Treaty have been performed.

(4) [Self-Collision] [(a)] Paragraph (1) shall not apply when the applicant of, or the inventor identified in, the former application, and the applicant of, or the inventor identified in, the application under examination, is one and the same person.

[(b) Any Contracting Party that considers the whole contents of the former application to be prior art only for the purpose of determining the novelty of the invention shall be free not to apply subparagraph (a).]

[Observations]

13.A It is suggested that Article 13 should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to Observations 13.B to 13.D.

13.B Ad Article 13(1)(a). As regards the last sentence, it seems that the option provided for would be needed by one country, namely by the United States of America. The option, if chosen by the United States of America, would have the effect that an applicant, for example, a foreign applicant, whose invention, although new, is obvious (that is, it does not have an inventive step) when compared with the invention of another applicant who filed an earlier application, or who has the benefit of an earlier priority date, could not obtain a patent in the United States of America, whereas he could obtain a patent in all other countries (because in those countries the earlier application is not taken into consideration in determining nonobviousness). In this connection, it should be noted that the applicant with the earlier filing or priority date may well be a foreigner, in which case he (the foreigner) would have the advantage of the system prevailing in the United States of America. It should also be noted that the United States of America would, if the first sentence of Article 13(1) remains as proposed (and the Delegation of the United States of America raised no objection to it), be obliged to abandon the "Hilmer doctrine" (i.e., the doctrine according to which the prior art effect starts on the filing date but not on the priority date), and, as it is well known, thereby make an important concession. The advantages obtained through that concession by foreign applicants in the United States of America would be far more important than the limitation of the prior art effect to the requirement of novelty, a limitation which--depending on the circumstances and as already stated--may well be a disadvantage for a foreign applicant and which could endanger the acceptance of this Article by the United States of America and, thereby, the generally much desired abandonment of the "Hilmer doctrine." Thus, despite the opinions expressed in the first part of the Diplomatic Conference, it is suggested that the last sentence of Article 13(1)(a) be maintained.

13.C Ad possible new Article 13(1)(d). It is suggested that a new subparagraph be added to Article 13(1) and that it should read as follows:

"(d) Any Contracting Party may consider an application for a utility model filed in, or with effect for, that Contracting Party as prior art in accordance with paragraph (a)."

13.D Ad Article 13(4) and possible new Article 13(5). A provision excluding self-collision is needed in the United States of America, Japan and some other countries, whereas European countries, mainly because they provide for the possibility of claiming internal priority, do not need it. However, foreign applicants in Europe would be interested in having a provision excluding self-collision. A possible solution would be the inclusion of a mandatory provision against self-collision, as a safeguard for foreign applicants in all countries. The fact that European countries feel that such a provision is not needed does not mean that such a provision would be disadvantageous for them.

The same consideration applies to the prohibition of double patenting (see proposal of the United States of America concerning a new paragraph (5) of Article 13, document PLT/DC/INF/5, paragraph 13.07). Thus, the mandatory exclusion of self-collision could be combined with a mandatory prohibition of double-patenting. Consequently, it is suggested that Article 13(4) read as follows:

"(4) [Self-Collision] Paragraph (1) shall not apply when the applicant of, or the inventor identified in, the former application, and the applicant of, or the inventor identified in, the application under examination, is one and the same person, provided that only one patent may be validly granted by the same Office for the same invention."

One could, however, slightly modify the suggested text in the following respects:

(i) the words "or the inventor identified in" (in both places where they appear) could be deleted, in particular, in order not to grant the benefit of the provision excluding self-collision in cases where inventors change employers;

(ii) the words "at the filing date of the application under examination" could be added before the words "one and the same person" in order not to grant the benefit of the provision excluding self-collision in cases where the applicants were not originally the same but became the same as a consequence of the assignment of one of the applications.

ARTICLE 15

[Basic Proposal]

Article 15
Publication of Application

(1) [Requirement to Publish the Application] (a) Subject to paragraphs (2) to (4), the Office shall publish the application as soon as possible after the expiration of 18 months from the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date.

(b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a), any Contracting Party that, at the time of depositing its instrument of ratification of, or accession to, this Treaty, does not provide for the publication of applications as provided in subparagraph (a) may notify the Director General at the said time that it reserves the right to publish applications as soon as possible after the expiration of 24 months, rather than 18 months, from the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date.

(2) [Earlier Publication at Applicant's Request] If, before the expiration of the time limit referred to in paragraph (1), the applicant requests that the application be published, the Office shall, without delay after the receipt of the request, publish the application.

(3) [National Security] Any Contracting Party shall be free not to publish an application for reasons of national security.

(4) [Circumstances in Which Publication May Not Take Place] (a) No application may be published if it is withdrawn or abandoned or is considered withdrawn or abandoned

(i) earlier than two months before the expiration of the time limit applicable under paragraph (1) or,

(ii) where the Office completes the technical preparations for publication later than two months before the expiration of the time limit applicable under paragraph (1), prior to the completion of such preparations.

(b) No application may be published if it has been rejected.

[Observations]

15.A It is suggested that Article 15 and Rule 8 should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to Observations 15.B and 15.C.

15.B Ad Article 15(4). In the light of the suggested drafting changes (see document PLT/DC/INF/5, paragraphs 15.05 and 15.06), it is suggested that this provision read as follows:

"(4) [Circumstances in Which Publication May Not Take Place] No application that has ceased to be pending shall be published, provided that, if the application ceased to be pending after the expiration of 16 months (where paragraph (1)(a) applies) or 22 months (where paragraph (1)(b) applies) from the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date, it may be published if the Office, for all practical purposes, can no longer withhold publication of the application because the technical preparations for publication have been completed."

ARTICLE 20

[Basic Proposal]

Article 20
Prior User

(1) [Right of Prior User]

Alternative A

Any Contracting Party may provide that, notwithstanding Article 19,

Alternative B

Notwithstanding Article 19,

a patent shall have no effect against any person (hereinafter referred to as "the prior user") who, in good faith, for the purposes of his enterprise or business, before the filing date or, where priority is claimed, the priority date of the application on which the patent is granted, and within the territory where the patent produces its effect, was using the invention or was making effective and serious preparations for such use; any such person shall have the right, for the purposes of his enterprise or business, to continue such use or to use the invention as envisaged in such preparations.

(2) [Successor-in-Title of the Prior User] The right of the prior user may only be transferred or devolve together with his enterprise or business, or with that part of his enterprise or business in which the use or preparations for use have been made.

[Observations]

20.A With regard to Article 20, it would seem that a provision such as Alternative B of the basic proposal, which would oblige Contracting Parties to provide for prior users' rights, would not, under the present circumstances, be acceptable in the United States of America and could endanger the successful adoption of the Treaty or at least its acceptance by that country.

20.B It remains to be considered whether or not an optional provision on prior users' rights should be included in the Treaty. Such an optional provision would have been indispensable if Article 19 (Rights Conferred by the Patent) had been maintained, since otherwise a Contracting Party would be prevented from providing for prior users' rights. With the removal of Article 19, which was decided by the Assembly of the Paris Union, Article 20 is no longer needed by those Contracting Parties which want to (continue to) provide for prior users' rights. On the other hand, the existence in the Treaty of an optional Article would entail an obligation for any Contracting Party providing for prior users' rights to comply with the substance of the Article and might prevent a country wishing at a later stage to introduce provisions on prior users' rights in its legislation from doing so if the substance of the Article is not acceptable to it. Therefore, even the presence of an optional Article in the Treaty may endanger the success of the Patent Law Treaty, unless such Article would only mention the possibility of a prior user's right without any indication of the conditions and scope of such a right.

20.C In conclusion, it is suggested not to include any Article on prior users' rights in the Treaty. In any case, it should be noted, firstly, that leaving the matter entirely to national laws appears to be reasonable since the beneficiaries of a prior user right are, in the vast majority of cases, only residents of the territory of the Contracting Party in question, and, secondly, that it will always be possible, if the position of the United States of America on prior users' rights moves at a later stage towards the solutions preferred by most other prospective Contracting Parties, to conclude a Protocol on the matter under Article 32.

ARTICLE 22

[Basic Proposal]

Article 22
Term of Patents

Alternative A

Note: No article on the term of patents.

Alternative B

(1) [Minimum Duration of Protection] [Omitted]

(2) [Starting Date of Term] (a) The starting date of the term of a patent shall be the filing date of the application on which the patent is granted, whether or not the application claims the priority of another application.

(b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a), where an application ("the subsequent application") invokes one or more earlier applications without claiming the priority of any of those earlier applications, the starting date of the term of the patent granted on the subsequent application shall be the filing date of the earliest-filed application invoked in the subsequent application.

[Observations]

22.A The basic proposal of Article 22 contains two Alternatives: Alternative A eliminates the totality of the Article, Alternative B has two paragraphs, but the Assembly of the Paris Union agreed that paragraph (1) of that Alternative should be removed.

22.B Thus, first one will have to decide which of the Alternatives is followed.

VOL
AG
31
1993
UMI

22.C If Alternative A is followed, not only paragraph (l) but also paragraph (2), that is, the whole Article, is eliminated.

22.D If Alternative B is followed, it is suggested that what is paragraph (2) in that Alternative have the following wording:

"(l) [Starting Date of Term] Subject to paragraph (2), no Contracting Party shall count the term of a patent from a date other than the filing date of the application on which the patent is granted.

(2) [Subsequent Application Not Claiming Priority] Where an application ("the subsequent application") invokes one or more earlier applications without claiming the priority of any of those earlier applications, the starting date of the term of the patent granted on the subsequent application shall be the filing date of the earliest-filed application invoked in the subsequent application."

ARTICLE 23

[Basic Proposal]

Article 23
Enforcement Of Right

(1) [Enforcement Based on Patents] The owner of the patent shall have at least the right

(i) to obtain an injunction to restrain the performance or the likely performance, by any person without his authorization, of any of the acts referred to in Article 19(1), (2) and (4),

(ii) to obtain damages, adequate under the circumstances, from any person who, without his authorization, performed any of the acts referred to in Article 19(1), (2) and (4), where the said person was or should have been aware of the patent.

(2) [Enforcement Based on Published Applications] (a) The applicant shall at least have the right to obtain reasonable compensation from any person who, without his authorization, performed any of the acts referred to in Article 19(1), (2) and (4) in relation to any invention, claimed in the published application, as if a patent had been granted for that invention, provided that the said person, at the time of the performance of the act, had

(i) actual knowledge that the invention that he was using was the subject matter of a published application, or

(ii) received written notice that the invention that he was using was the subject matter of a published application, such application being identified in the said notice by its serial number.

(b) Any Contracting Party may provide that, with respect to the compensation referred to in subparagraph (a), an action may not be initiated or a decision may not be made until after the grant of a patent on the published application, provided that, if an action may be initiated only after the grant of the patent, the owner of the patent shall have reasonable time to initiate such action.

(c) For the purposes of subparagraphs (a) and (b), the extent of the protection shall be determined by the claims as appearing in the published application. However, if the claims are amended after the initial publication of the application, the extent of the protection shall be determined by the amended claims in respect of the period following their publication. Furthermore, if the claims of the patent as granted or as changed after its grant have a narrower scope than the claims in the application, the extent of the protection shall be determined by the claims with the narrower scope.

[Observations]

23.A It is suggested that Article 23 should remain as in the basic proposal, subject to Observations 23.B to 23.E.

23.B Ad Article 23(1) and (2)(a). In view of the removal of Article 19 by the Assembly of the Paris Union, the words "acts referred to in Article 19(1), (2) and (4)" should be replaced, in paragraphs (1)(i) and (ii) and (2)(a) of Article 23, by the words "acts requiring such authorization." Furthermore, the expression "without his authorization" is replaced by the expressions "without the owner's authorization" (in paragraph (1)(i) and (ii)) or "without the applicant's authorization" (in paragraph (2)(a)).

23.C Ad Article 23(1)(ii). It is suggested to replace the words "was or should have been aware of the patent" by the words "had actual knowledge, or should have been aware, of the patent" and to add the following proviso at the end:

"; however, any Contracting Party may, where the subject matter of the patent concerns a process and the act performed by the said person relates to a product directly resulting from the use of the patented process, limit the availability of damages to such acts performed after the person has received written notice that such acts were covered by a patent, such patent being identified in the said notice by its number."

23.D Ad Article 23(2)(a). It is suggested to insert, after the word "performed" in the third line, the words ", in the period between the publication of the application and the grant of the patent thereon,".

23.E Ad Article 23(2)(c). It is suggested that this subparagraph should read as follows:

"For the purposes of subparagraphs (a) and (b), the extent of the protection shall be determined by the elements covered both by the claims in the published application and by the claims in the patent."

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents and Trademarks Available for Public Use in Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries (PTDLs), receive patent and trademark information in various formats from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Many PTDLs have on file all full-text patents issued since 1790, trademarks published since 1872, and select collections of foreign patents. All PDTLs have both the patent and trademark sections of the Official Gazette of the U. S. Patent and Trademark Office. The full-text utility and design patents are distributed numerically on 16 mm microfilm, and plant patents on color microfiche. Patent and trademark search systems on CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only) format are available at all PTDLs to increase utilization of and enhance access to the information found in patents and trademarks. It is through the CD-ROM systems that preliminary patent and trademark searches can be conducted through the numerically arranged collections.

All information is available for use by the public free of charge.

In addition, each PTDL offers reference publications which outline and provide access to the patent and trademark classification systems, as well as other documents and publications which supplement the basic search tools. PTDLs provide technical staff assistance in using all materials. Facilities for making paper copies of patent and trademark information are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent and trademark collections among the PTDLs, and their hours of service to the public vary, anyone contemplating use of these collections at a particular library is urged to contact that library in advance about its collections, services, and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 2.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).
